Re: United States v. Zheng, Ming Yan and Liu, Chang Da,
Criminal Case No. 05-00027

Dear Anthony:

At the hearing last Wednesday, you requested information about the matter of a parole request into Guam for Wang, Lan Jun and Wang, Bin. The government inquired during the investigation about admitting the Wangs into Guam under a significant public benefit parole. The government learned from United States Immigration that the Wangs were not eligible for such a parole because they were not victims of the sex trafficking charges that the government then contemplated bringing. The government informed the Wangs that they were not eligible for entry into Guam. As you know, the government did provide the Wangs with transportation back to China, housing and per diem benefits.

Sincerely,

LEONARDO M. RAPADAS
